PLEXI PLUS ENCLOSURES

Features and benefits include

- Exceptional clarity and by definition, substantially increased safety.
- Excellent acoustic properties.
- Virtually maintenance free.
- Stiff, taut resistance to sagging.
- Beats vinyl's yellowing and crazing.
- Looks, works and performs like glass - without the weight and safety issues.

PlexiPlus withstands exposure to sunlight, rain, and extreme temperatures, and retains its transparency. Even after years of use, it loses almost none of its unsurpassed light transmission. Whereas competitive materials like polycarbonate, polystyrene, PVC and polyester become clouded and yellow over the years, PlexiPlus stays clear. We give a ten year guarantee on light transmission. With good reason: tests performed on Plexiglas® installed in the 1970s show that it has lost virtually none of its transparency after 25 years. Impact-resistance is exceptional, too. In comparison with glass, PlexiPlus is about eleven times more break-resistant.

PlexiPlus Enclosures are more than just 'another set of clears.'

They represent the consolidation of what is often a considerable investment in a magnificent craft, by providing the owner with a degree of investment assurance not previously obtainable in Australia. Nothing looks worse than seeing a cruiser's 'clears' spoiled - sometimes within months - by Australia's harsh UV light and rugged weather conditions. And nothing impacts quite so severely on the craft's ultimate resale value than a yellowed, crazed, worn-out looking 'oxygen tent'.

Apart from looking awful though, there is the related issue that with yellowing clears, a skipper's vision can be severely restricted. This impacts heavily on a gameboat's ability to utilise the very reason flybridges were developed - the need for clear, unimpeded vision to spot billfish, birds 'working', baitfish breaking the surface - or even more importantly, to clearly see navigation hazards such as debris, logs, sunfish, etc.

With PlexiPlus, these problems are now a thing of the past.
